

Grow faster with insights from your data!

As you grow and face stiffer competition, gaining insights from your data becomes paramount. Data turned into valuable information will enable you to respond smartly to market changes and set you apart from your competition. However, the cost and complexity in engaging business intelligence tools can appear to be daunting, especially for Small and Medium Enterprises. This stems from the perception that complex operational systems needs to be in place to even start on the business analytics journey.

The answers to these worries can be quite simple.

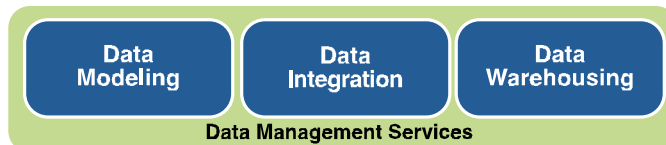

Benefits:

- Comprehensive service portfolio for one-stop business intelligence needs
- Domain and technology expertise in business intelligence and analytics
- Better business insights to uncover new business opportunities
- Achieve lower total cost of ownership and higher return on investment in a familiar IT environment

A compelling and effective solution for your business intelligence needs

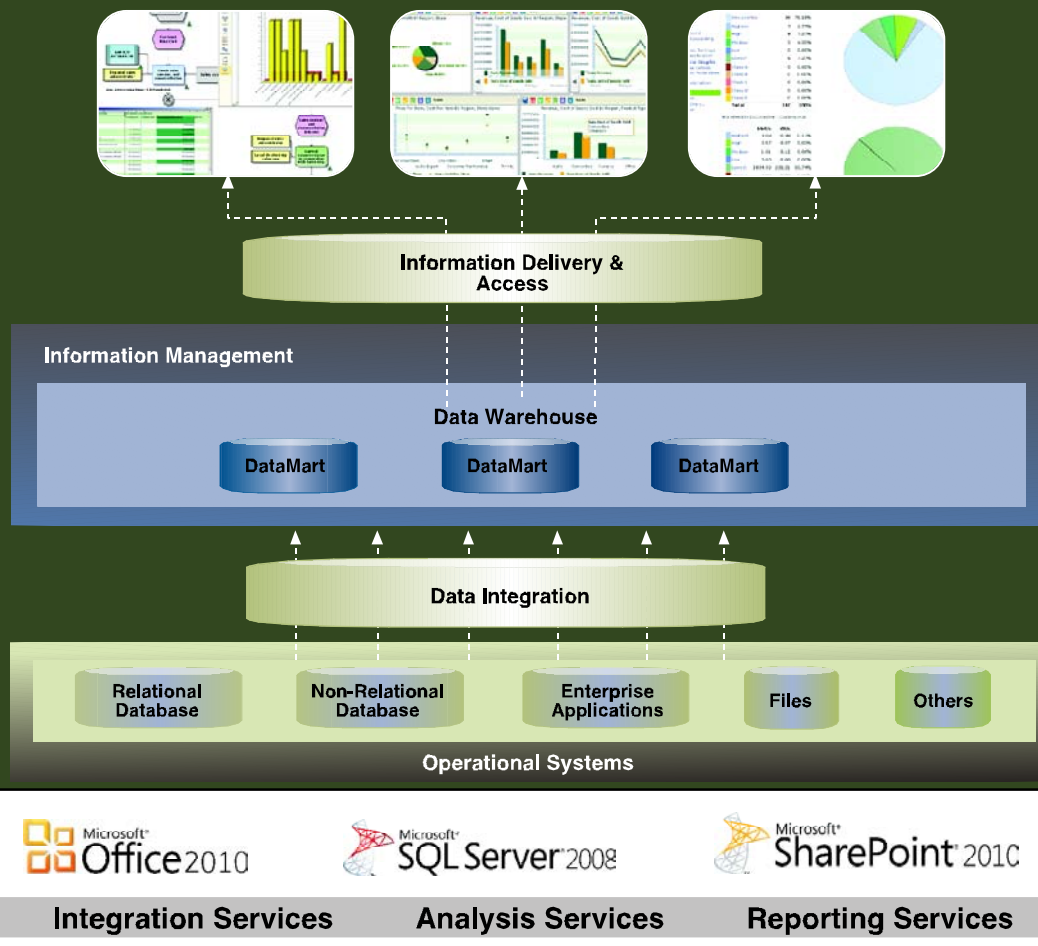

The familiar and ubiquitous Microsoft Office and Microsoft SharePoint environment can be extended further to become the platforms for gaining insights from your data. Combine this with the power of Microsoft SQL Server's business intelligence capabilities and you can have a compelling and effective decision making solution that helps you overcome business challenges and leap towards hitherto uncharted opportunities.

With our expertise in data warehousing, business intelligence and analytics and our stellar track record in Microsoft technologies, Emerio can help you build cost-effective business intelligence solutions that derive the maximum potential from your current investments.
